Earthseed:

Julie Curtiss, Loie Hollowell, Marguerite Humeau

18 October – 17 December 2022

White Cube Paris

White Cube Paris is pleased to present 'Earthseed', a group exhibition featuring works by Julie Curtiss, Loie Hollowell and Marguerite Humeau. Bringing together paintings, sculptures and works on paper, the exhibition is inspired by the ground-breaking science fiction writer Octavia E. Butler (1947–2006).

The selected works are suggestive of voyages to outer space and inner space, considering the female body as a site of transformation as well as a gateway for the imagination. Marguerite Humeau searches out the roots of our spiritual sensibility entangled with the origins of human consciousness, and speculates on our capacity for evolution. Julie Curtiss' disquieting surrealist representation of femininity hints at secret rituals and offers the possibility of human hybridity and adaptation. Loie Hollowell's works, taking shape from the female body, celebrate the miracle that is human reproduction in a language of forms that reference earth, seed and cosmos.
